

Fifth Grade Grauation Poems

Broken Dreams By Carmen Fowler

She was graceful as she flew,
says the perfect shoes she had;
She has strong feet,
says the pointe shoes overflowing in her room;
Her sun-kissed hair is long,
says the scrunchies in her bathroom.

She was a dancer,
says the leotards and tights in the drawers;
A good one too,
says the medals hanging on a wall and trophies on a stand.

Her recital was near,
Says the sweat on her forehead;
And her dance was complex,
Says the hours of practice she put in;
She walked to her position,
Says the video on the camera.

She started to dance,
And would have finished it,
Says the camera once more;
If a bead from a costume wasn't on stage,
That shattered big dreams.

The Lonely Girl By Julie Gonzalez

She was scared and alone
Said the toy walky-talky
No one was there for when she was lonely
People made fun of her said her rainbow-colored socks
Something went wrong when she got lonely.

She would cry every night says the old bed frame
Looking to see who would play
No one ever believed in her
Says her 5th grade graduation diploma.

She always felt lonely, like a hole in her heart
Said the medicine on the gray kitchen counter
But there was hope in her eyes
Says the purple picture frame
When she looked at me and said
"My Oh My, I lost hope in my eyes"

But then I found light where the sun never shines
She saw an old friend that she used to know
And then she was reminded that she was once loved...
Something went right that day!
